Time management for your employees

Horo is a tool that replaces your old punching machine.

The system eliminates complex and tedious operations that take up precious time.

Manual punch cards require hundreds of entries and calculations every month.

Solution for the management of the working time of your employees.

The employee identifies himself/herself at the time clock either by magnetic card, touch screen, bar code or keyboard. All times recorded by employees can be modified by supervisors. Each employee is linked to one or more categories that will be used to produce reports.

You can therefore say goodbye to punch cards, piles of paper to file and all compilation errors.

Multi-location version also available for centralized management of multiple locations.
Interface with some payroll software available.
