Save time by informing yourself

DETA is a tool that works with the account module to be received from the Maitre'D management & invoicing application.

At the end of the month, when you print the account statement reports to send to your clients, this document only contains the summaries of the amounts invoiced and the total balance due.

The problem experienced by restaurant owners is the number of emails and calls they receive from their customers who wish to receive the details of bills on the account statement. An employee can then access Maitre'D to manually extract the invoice information for the customer who requested it.

DETA allows you to export the details of each invoice per customer and send them the report individually by email automatically.

Each client will receive an email from the address on their client file. The email will include, as an attachment, the PDF file of all his invoices for the previous month.
