Program monitoring

Vigil is an application that monitors the proper functioning of some of your applications.

To ensure that they are working properly, we must make sure that each of them is in operation.

Vigil is used, among other things, with the Maitre'D application when restaurant owners use online orders to ensure that the cash register that manages the receipt of online orders is in operation.

The application validates in real time the different Windows software and processes. If it notices that a software should be running and it is not, it will take care of starting it.

Conversely, if a program no longer seems to be responding or is responding abnormally, Vigil will close it and restart it to ensure that it is working properly.
